Sue Sanders/Schools Out UK/LGBT History Month Archive

1973-2018

Name of Creator: Sue Sanders/Schools Out UK/LGBT History Month

Extent: 45 boxes

Administrative/Biographical History: Sue Sanders (b 1947), Emeritus Professor Harvey Milk Institute 2015, is a British LGBTQ+ rights activist who has specialized in challenging oppression in the public and voluntary sectors for over 40 years.

After studying at London's New College of Speech and Drama (now part of Middlesex University), where she received a teaching diploma, Sanders studied counselling on alcohol-related problems as well as Gestalt Therapy and contribution training. She also holds qualifications on dealing with stress and trauma.

Since 1967 she has been a teacher, tutor and lecturer on women's studies, drama and fighting homophobia in schools, universities and other organisations, both in London and in Sydney, Australia.

Since 1984 Sanders has worked as a management consultant and trainer for the public and voluntary sector. A former member of the LGBT Advisory Group to the Metropolitan Police, she was also an independent adviser to the London Criminal Justice Board, and is a member of the Hate Crime Independent Advisory Group for the Ministry of Justice. She was part of the National Union of Teachers LGBT working party (since 1999), a member of the Southwark anti-Homophobic Forum (which she joined in 1997) and a consultant to the Crown Prosecution Service, helping to produce national policy on prosecuting homophobic crimes effectively.

In 1996 she co-founded, with Paul Patrick, a consultancy called Chrysalis which delivers training around equal opportunity issues – particularly anti-heterosexism.

In 2000 she became the co-chair of Schools OUT UK, a group working for the equality of LGBT people in the education system. With the help of the Schools Out committee she instituted the UK's first LGBT History Month; this was launched in December 2004.

In 2011 Sanders founded The Classroom, a website with over 50 lesson plans free for teachers to use for teaching LGBTQ+ issues across the curriculum and in all Key Stages tied to the national curriculum.

Sanders has directed many plays in London's fringe theatres and has been involved in the production of radio programmes for ABC in Sydney. She is the author of poetry and short stories as well as many articles and brochures on feminist issues, education and homophobia. She regularly appears on TV and radio programmes dealing with equality and LGBTQ+ issues, and is a keynote speaker and workshop leader in many conferences dealing with diversity, homophobia, and LGBTQ+ issues.
