FORMAT Format Photographers Agency c1960-2017

Name of Creator: Format Photographers Agency

Extent: 30 boxes, 3 oversized folders, 3 posters & 5 wav.

Administrative/Biographical History: Established in 1983(2), Format Photographers Agency was a women's only photographic agency founded by Maggie Murray, Sheila Gray, Pam Isherwood, Anita Corbin, Jenny Matthews, Joanne O'Brien, Raissa Page and Val Wilmer. Other prominent members included Brenda Prince, Melanie Friend, Judy Harrison, Roshini Kempadoo, Jacky Chapman and Mo Wilson.

It offered a platform for female photographers to develop their creativity and enhance their careers.

The agency's work documented the world from a different angle and represented issues, events and individuals who got very little coverage in the mainstream media. Their photographs captured a range of important political events and momentous social movements, including the women's peace camp at Greenham Common, LGBTQ+ marches and demonstrations, soup kitchens during the Miners' Strike, and various women's rights movements and demonstrations. Their photography also included portraits of men and women who were prominent at the time, women working in new areas of employment, and the lives and experiences of the everyday person.

The agency closed down in 2003, and their work has been celebrated in several exhibitions, including an exhibition at the National Portrait Gallery in London during 2010.
